

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY HOVERS OVER PEACEFUL CLOVERPORT

Jesse Keys Dies From Terrible Stab Wounds. Had Been on a Pleasure Trip With William and Selby McCracken. Expires Before Making Statement.

KEYS FOUND ALONE DYING IN HIS BOAT

A pleasure trip that ended in a tragedy was the one taken Sunday by Wm. McCracken, Selby McCracken and Jesse Keys, the latter of the three lying cold in his grave today.

Death A Tragedy.

The death of Keys is the result of one of the most horrible tragedies that ever occurred in this community. Sunday, Keys, with his two fellow work-men, started together for a trip down the river in Key's gasoline boat. Nothing was heard from them until about 8:30 that night when the McCracken men returned to the city and informed several persons that Keys was hurt in his boat and they had better go to his rescue.

Found in Sinking Boat.

Dr. Simons was called, and he with Marion Weatherholt, Wm. Pate, Carl DeHaven and Marshal DeHaven went immediately down the river in Weatherholt's launch in search of the wounded man. Near Sterrett's Landing, banked up in the willows on the Kentucky shore was Key's boat gradually sinking with him lying in the water, dying moment by moment from the result of several stab wounds.

His Last Call.

"When the rescuers' boat got near Keys they heard him groaning and just as they reached him he moaned in agony, 'Oh, Lord where am I?' There was no answer. His rescuers were terrified at the sight of his tragic condition. In a few minutes he collapsed.

Body Brought Home.

His rescuers bailed the skiff out and brought home the man who had been stabbed and brutally injured. Dr. Simons remarked Monday, of all the accidents he had ever seen, the result of this tragic, was the most terrible. It has indeed, made the blood of Cloverport's citizens run cold.

Will Say Little.

There is no certain knowledge learned about the tragedy as yet. It is said, the McCracken men were the only persons in the boat with Keys and they will talk little of the affair.

Whiskey The Cause.

It is reported that Keys and Wm. McCracken were engaged in an altercation and McCracken stabbed him in self-defense. The cause of the trouble can not be ascertained, but it is thought the men were drinking, for no sober, sane man would commit such a crime.

Were Best of Friends.

The McCracken brothers and Mr. Keys were best of friends and frequently spent their Sundays and holidays together. They were joined side by side for years in the Henderson Route shops at this place. Selby McCracken is a member of the City Council.

Under Arrest.

The following warrant was sworn out for the McCracken men:

Commonwealth of Kentucky, To any sheriff, marshal, etc. It appearing that there are reasonable grounds for believing that Wm. McCracken and Selby McCracken have committed the crime of murder which was committed in manner and form as follows: The said Wm. McCracken and Selby McCracken on the Ohio river opposite either Breckenridge county or Hancock county and at this place of low water mark on the Indian shore side of the river and in Kentucky and before the issue of this warrant did unlawfully, wilfully, maliciously and feloniously and with their malice aforethought and with the intention to kill Jesse Keys, cut, stab and wound the said Jesse Keys with a knife, a deadly weapon or other sharp instrument from which cutting, stabbing and wounding the said Jesse Keys died immediately thereafter and

The grand jury returned the following indictments after a six days session:

Dunk Powell and Harvey Smith, breach of peace; Henry Davenport, unlawfully furnishing liquor to a minor; George Gracy, housebreaking; George Bates, unlawfully furnishing liquor to a minor; Mack Robertson, carrying concealed a deadly weapon; Owen Carman, Manly Carman and Preston Board, unlawfully taking and carrying away property of another; John D. Beavin, violating local option law, two charges; Dunk Powell, unlawfully aiding prisoner to escape, while prisoner was charged with misdemeanor; Leonard Huffines, unlawful knowledge of a female under the age of 16; Logan Bates, violating local option law; Ollie Johnson, unlawfully and wilfully tampering a school house.

Miss Mollie Moorman, of Glendenna, was the guest of friends Saturday and Sunday.

Elmer Nall, of Big Spring, and Miss Mattie Nimmo, of the same section of the county, were married in Judge Moorman's office Thursday, May 13, by Arthur Mather officiating.

Eleven applicants were before the Board Friday and Saturday for examination from the Common School Course. They were: Johnnie Marshall, Logan Hickerson, Coleman Payne, Matthew A. Vase, Alie D. and Marvin B. Beard, Kathleen Hoben, Jetty Harrison, Khes Siper, Ernest Gibson and Lura Norton.

Only the last five could compete for the prizes offered. The International Dictionary goes to Mr. Gibson, of Louisville, who easily won it over his competitors, his average being slightly over 85 per cent. Miss Lura Norton was the $5 gold prize, as her average divided by her actual age gives her the largest quotient, though Miss Jetty Harrison, of Louisville was a very close competitor.

C. M. Payne, one of our life certificate graduating class at Bowling Green, is at home with his parents at Harrod for a few days. Misses Mary Jarboe, Coral Whittinghall and Annie West, all of Breckenridge, will also receive life certificates this summer from the Western State Normal.

Mrs. Frank A. Hardin, of Cabot, Mo., arrived last week to be the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander, for several weeks.

The Children's day at the Methodist Episcopal church, South, was a complete success Sunday. To a crowded house, the children, from the little "Sunbeams" to the ones in their teens, showed that natural talent had benighted by careful training. The committee composed of Mrs. Mather, Mrs. Morris Beard, Mrs. Pile, Miss Tida Mercer and Miss Lucy Snyder are being congratulated upon the perfect arrangement of the service of the church and the work of the children. The collection was $18.75.

A good crowd was present at the special church service last Wednesday night. Tonight Dr. Mather will preach again, his subject being "Supremacy of Character."

"Picturesque Britain" is the subject of a lecture at the City Hall Friday night. Dr. Mather, a native Britisher, is so thoroughly acquainted with the country of his birth that he will enter-

THE GOOD OLD SUMMER TIME HAS COME AGAIN

Show Boats, Epworth League Street Carnival, Strawberry Suppers, Lawn Fetes, Etc., Etc., Booked for the Coming Warm Days in Cloverport.

OLD TOWN SURE GETTING GAY AND BUSY

The good old summer time has come! The show boats are coming down the Ohio on the average of one every ten days. Welcome they are to Cloverport, and especially the attractive companies like Cooley & Thom that gave a splendid performance here Monday night. The advance agent was in all probability responsible for the large audience. It was in the city several days in advance of the boat and made so many friends that an unusual interest was stirred up over Cooley's floating theater.

The Epworth League is advertising its Street Carnival for June 17 and 18. This event was great and enjoyable last July by the whole town, and it is being looked forward to with eagerness this year.

The time has come for ice cream and strawberry suppers that are always given in this season as money raisers for the churches. None have been advertised yet, but folks will be watching the News from now on for such fetes.

Teachers' examination at the Public School building Friday and Saturday, the first of the year. Prof. Wroe, of Cloverport and Miss Mary Jo Mattingly will be present to assist in conducting it.

Miss Mary Jo Mattingly, of Axtel, who has been here since Thursday last Tuesday afternoon on for a few days visit to Miss Mary Corwell at Irvington.

Court Notes

George Gracy, colored, of Cloverport, plead guilty to the charge of house breaking, and was sentenced to eighteen months in the penitentiary. Deputy sheriff, Finley, left with him yesterday morning for Eddyville.

The slanders suit of Mrs. Belle Basham of Vantant, against Wesley Check, of Fordsville, was dismissed settled, they having accepted a compromise.

Marl Dowell indicted for the killing of Jesse Hall several months ago, in the Clifton Mills neighborhood, was acquitted and is now a free man. His trial in February resulted in a hung jury.

Dunk Powell was fined $30 for disturbing a public meeting.

BELL-BOWMER

Miss Madison Miller Bell and Mr. William Sterrett Bowmer To Be Married June 16.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bell announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Madison Miller Bell, to Mr. William Sterrett Bowmer. The wedding will take place June 16.

On account of a recent sorrow in the family there will be no invitations issued.

Call For Tobacco Growers.

Matthew Shewsbury, President of the Breckenridge County Tobacco Growers' Association, has ordered that a meeting of all the tobacco growers of Breckenridge county (including the burley raisers) be held in Hardinsburg on Saturday, May 29, for the purpose of electing two members to represent this county on the board of control in the Green River tobacco growers association. This meeting will discuss also some other questions that the tobacco growers are all interested in. Let us make it a big day.

OPENS OFFICE

Gas Company Ready For Business - Messrs. Tague Ready to Receive Consumers.

James Tague and Otto Tague, Superintendents of the Kentucky-Indiana Natural Gas Company have opened an office over the Breckenridge bank on Main street.

The Company's service in this city is quite a convenience to the residents and they are serving the consumers in a most satisfactory manner.

It seems like old times to have gas lights in Cloverport and better times to have gas lights regulated and fitted in the best and modern way.

MOORMAN PROMINENT AT THE ATHLETIC EVENT

A great athletic event was the St. Louis Times' five-mile Junior Marathon race for school boys from Forest Park to Times square in St. Louis Saturday. The race was won by Donald Hart, G. F. Moorman, a former Breckenridge county man, now a policeman of the first rank and standing in St. Louis, assisted in superintending the large crowd of spectators at the race and kept the crowd in order. The St. Louis Times contained a splendid picture and a complimentary mention of Mr. Moorman Saturday.

Bill Sees A Good Time.

Irvington, May 11, -Special-William Claycomb, of the Henderson Route, at Irvington, has spent the week at Louisville on business. While his trip to Louisville has been solely for business, "Bill," as he is familiarly known by his associates, found quite a little time to take in the sights and note the growth of the city. Bill says things are advancing quite a little since his last trip to the metropolis. Amongst the many he noted was a horse-less carriage with gummy wheels and the sky-scraper at Ninth and Broadway. Bill also went down to Fountain Ferry Park, and had to be directed to the depot by one of Louisville's "Finest Soldiers," as he claims, but he has arrived at his old stamping ground and still doing the coal business up brown.

MRS. BASHAM

Dies At Her Home in Irvington After Several Months Illness Of Tuberculosis.

On last Wednesday morning at 2 o'clock, Mrs. Cassie Basham died at her home in Irvington.

She had been a victim of tuberculosis for several years, showing in her patient suffering the faith that was in her. Besides a husband she has parents and several brothers left to mourn her loss.

The funeral was conducted at the Methodist church on Thursday afternoon by the Rev. B. F. Wilson and the remains were laid to rest in the Cedar Hill Cemetery by a large procession of relatives and friends.

CHAPTER XXV.

CAROLINA LANGDON'S REVOLUTION. SENATOR LANGDON'S committee room at the capitol presented a busy scene at an unusual early hour the morning after the entertainment at his home. Bud Haines, reinstated as secretary, was picking up the thread of routine when he had dropped it the day before, though his frequent thought of how and the words that had thrilled him—"I love you, I love you fondly"—made this task unusually difficult. He impatiently wished the afternoon to hasten along, as he knew he would then see her in the senate gallery, where she would go to hear her father's speech.

This speech had to be read in some particulars by Bud, and he knew would take up much of his morning. The senator's speech was "The South of the Future," which he would deliver when required by the president of the senate in connection with the naval base bill, that officer having agreed to reintroduce Langdon at 3:30, at which time the report of the naval affairs committee would be received. Just how Langdon would turn the tables on Peabody and Stevens and yet win for the Alcatraz site not even the ex-newspaper man, experienced in politics, had solved. Clearly the senator would have to do some tall talking during the morning.

The junior senator from Mississippi burst into the office with his habitual cheery greeting, his broad brimmed black felt hat in its usual position on the back of his head, like a symbol of undying defiance.

"A busy day for us, eh, senator?" queried Bud.

"Now, look here, my boy, don't begin to remind me of work right off."

"I'll have to incubate an idea."

he said, with a humorous gleam in his eye. "Go easy on me. Don't forget I'm her father."

Bud laughed through the dust that rose in his cheeks.

"No, I won't forget that. But have you decided what to tell Peabody and Stevens as your plan of action if they come in here at 3:30?"

"If they come," exclaimed Langdon. "They'll come. Watch 'em."

Then he hesitated worldly.

"I'll have to incubate an idea between now and noon somehow. But don't forget this, Bud—were worried about them, true enough, but they're worried a heap more about us."

Senator Langdon stepped into an adjoining room, where he could be alone, to "incubate."

As Haines resumed his work Carolina Langdon entered.

Norton started toward Carolina, a look of apprehension on his face. He gathered from the trend of her words and demeanor that she had turned against him.

"You couldn't be so cruel, Carolina," he protested.

"I will always cherish our friendship, my happy younger days down in Mississippi, but I must give up thinking of you as my future husband. We've both made a mistake, mine probably greater than yours but I now am convinced that I should not marry you. Your way of thinking about life is all wrong and you are too deeply entangled with the dishonest men in Washington to draw back. I cannot love you."

"But I am doing it all for your sake, Carolina. Don't let an old fashioned father came between a man and a woman and their love," he cried.

"Charlie, I must give you up."

"The girl turned me, one side, as though to give Norton a chance to leave."

He looked at her in silence a moment or two. Then a change came into his hearing. Wrinkling his face into a sneer, he stepped before the girl.

"You've been converted mighty sudden, I reckon, from land speculation to preaching—and preaching, too, against folks who tried to make a fortune for you."

Norton stopped, expecting a reply, but the girl remained silent.

"You think I'm done for, that I've lost my money, that's why you turned from me so quickly," he laughed scornfully.

"But I'll show you, you and your blundering old father. I'll win you yet, and I'll ruin your father's political reputation. I'll—"

"Are you quite sure about that?" spoke a voice sharply behind the congressman.

He swung around vigorously. Bud Haines had returned in time to hear Norton's threat.

"Yes, and while I'm doing that I'll take time to show you up, too, somehow. I guess a congressman's word will count against that of a cheap secretary—that's what Miss Langdon said."

Carolina looked appealingly to Haines to rid her of the presence of this man, whose last words she knew Haines would not believe.

But Norton had had his say. He retreated to the door.

"Miss Langdon," he cried as he looked out and away, you have an idea that I am dishonest, but kindly remember that, whatever you think I am, I never was a hypocrite."

Haines advanced and procured a chair for Miss Langdon.

"In terribly sorry to have come back at such a time," he began.

"The girl cut him short with a gesture."

"I want to say to you," she said, then halted—"that I want to be friends with you. I want you to forget the happenings of yesterday—last evening—so far as I am concerned in them. I want to work together with you and father—and so does Randolph. Father and you are standing together to uphold the house of the Landons of Mississippi, and Randolph and I, no matter the cost of our former folly, want to share in that work."

Before Haines could reply Senator Langdon burst into the room.

"Bud, Bud," he cried, "I've got it! I've got it!"

"What to say to you?" she said, then halted—"that I want to be friends with you. I want you to forget the happenings of yesterday—last evening—so far as I am concerned in them. Before Haines could reply Senator Langdon burst into the room.

"Bud, Bud," he cried, "I've got it! I've got it!"

"What to say to you?" she said, then halted—"that I want to be friends with you. I want you to forget the happenings of yesterday—last evening—so far as I am concerned in them. I want to work together with you and father—and so does Randolph. Father and you are standing together to uphold the house of the Landons of Mississippi, and Randolph and I, no matter the cost of our former folly, want to share in that work."

"You've got what, senator?" exclaimed the secretary.

"That idea, my boy, that idea! It's incubated all right, and Peabody and Stevens can come just as soon as they want to."

CHAPTER XXVI.

THE BATTLES OF WASHINGTON.

Twenty minutes after 12 Senator Langdon and Secretary Haines were still undisturbed by any move on the part of Peabody and Stevens, who maintained a silence that to Haines was distinctly ominous. His experience at the capitol had taught him that when the senate machine was quiet it was time for some one to get out from under.

Miss Williams, the naval committee's stenographer, entered.

"Senator Langdon," she said, "Senator Peabody and Senator Stevens are in committee room 6, and they told me to tell you that they'd be— I can't say. Please, sir, they—"

"I—d," interrupted Langdon, laughing.

"Yes, sir, that's it—If they come in here at 12:30. You must tell them, they say."

"Tell the gentlemen I'm sitting here with my hat on the back of my head smoking a good cigar with nails driven through both shoes into the floor—and looking at the clock."

At 12:25 Senator Stevens entered.

"I came to warn you, Langdon," he said, "that Senator Peabody's patience is nearly exhausted. You must come to the floor at once. If you expect the south to get a naval base at Alcatraz or anywhere else. If you do not agree to his advice this naval bill and say other that you are interested in now or in future will be trumped up and defeat in the senate. Mississippi will have no use for a senator who cannot produce results in Washington, and that will prove the bitterest lesson you have ever learned."

"I'm waiting for Peabody here, Stevens."

"His ridiculousness! Of course he's not coming. Why, Langdon, he's the king of the senate. He has the biggest me of the country at his heels."

"He's got one minute left," observed Langdon, looking at the clock, "but he'll come. I trust Peabody more than the best clock made at a time like this."

The figure of the senior senator from Pennsylvania appeared in the doorway.

"Good day, Senator Langdon," he remarked lightly.

"Come to you. Have a cigar, senator," said Langdon. He turned and winked significantly at Haines.

The three senators seated themselves. "I suppose you wouldn't consider yourself so important, Langdon, if you knew that we now find we can get another member of the naval affairs committee for Alcatraz."

"That wouldn't prevent me from making a minority report for Gulf City and explaining why I made that report, would it?" the Mississippiian asked blandly.

Peabody and Stevens both knew that it wouldn't. Stevens exchanged glances with the "boss of the senate" and in low voice began making to Langdon a proposition to which Peabody's assent had been given.

"Langdon, we would like to be alone," and he nodded toward Haines.

"Sorry can't oblige, senator," Langdon replied. "Find out together make on the senator from Mississippi."

AUTOS FOR ROAD WORK

Kansas Farmer Uses One While Dragging a Public Highway.

BETTER THAN A HORSE TEAM

Machine For Pulling the Drag Makes Faster Time—Reform the Motor Car Has Brought About Improvement of Roads.

When the motor car first found its way to the Kansas farm it appeared a luxury. Soon it became a not uncommon pleasure and then a necessity. And a necessity it is today, especially in the Kansas wheat belt, where more cars are to be found on the farms than in any other part of the west.

Many farmers have them, and a majority of those who are not so fortunate have the motor car fever in a most virulent form. The farmers confess that this fever can be checked only by a fallow of two wheat and corn crops or by the desire of every farmer being gratified by having a car at his disposal.

The machines are now so thick on the Kansas prairies in some sections that one traveling over the rural roads will count at least two motor cars in every five vehicles passed in a day's drive.

There is probably not another machine found on the farm today that can be put to so many practical uses as the motor car. There are very few things to do on the farm except the tilling of the soil, in which the car cannot be brought into practical use. It is valued by the farmer for its speed probably more than any other quality, as the farmer is learning more and more to value his time just as the man in the office or the factory.

To the north of Salina a dozen miles or so there is a public road which shows that it has been well taken care of. The effect of the Kline drive is to be seen for more than a mile along one farm, and it is not an uncommon sight on that road to see a farmer with his touring car skimming along at the rate of six to eight miles an hour with a large King drag following, attached to the machine by a chain. This farmer has used the drag for some time, but more frequently in the last few months than ever before. He professes a car for the drag is a team of horses because he makes better time.

Sometimes it takes two men, one to run the car and the other to weight the drag. A heavy weight will answer the same purpose as the second man, but it is a custom for the farmers to work the roads together, and it comes naturally since the advent of the motor.

It is seldom that the farmer's car is seen at the garage. The farmer is so accustomed to making his own repairs that he usually falls into the job with the car. He finds it just as easy as repairing his harvester, his cultivator or his bicycle. Perhaps he may have a slight difficulty with some of the electrical parts of the engine, but when he has seen it repaired once he never has the same difficulty again, at least not to such an extent that an expert has to see it.

The public roads in central Kansas are such that a touring car can be taken out almost any time. Mud cuts no figure with the farmer, and this is one feature that makes his car so valuable to him. The town man will not run his machine in the mud, but the farmer doesn't care much. However, the farmers are talking good roads now more than they ever did before, and this is one reform the motor car has brought about. Already in many of the public roads the little knots have been filled up and the little knots have been cut down. More than a year ago the Salina motor club began the advocacy of good roads. The farmers were not in general sympathy with the motorists, and they were slow to take hold of the scheme, arguing that the roads in central Kansas were not so bad. They knew the object was to make it easier riding for motorists and especially for the tourists from the eastern cities, who desired to spend the summer in Colorado, making the trip overland.

The farmer, as a rule, laughed at the idea then, but now he is right in line. If he doesn't own a car now he expects to some day, and he is in hopes the roads will be made better before his machine arrives on his farm.

More roads were dragged last year than ever before in the history of Salina county, and it is safe to say that the present year will be a record breaker in this line of work.

The motor car of the farmers is in increasing good roads in another way. The dealers are the most active good roads advocates in the state. One of the principal motor dealers, for instance, makes it a business to deliver a good roads lecture with every car. The dealers have been farmers, and they know the subject from the standpoint of both sides. Farmers get an idea at the very beginning, and they never go behind the new doctrine—Kansas City Star.

James Wright, of Springfield, Ky., shows how to remain young. "I feel just like a 16-year-old boy," he writes, "after taking six bottles of Electric Bitters. The Conscientious Sailor.
The crowd around the postoffice stove, after examining the possibilities of politics, local and national, had been discussing the alleged fact of the truth telling instinct in Old Man Flappers. Uncle Ezra came in, and Jim Peters said:

"What do you think about it, Uncle Ezra—would you call Old Man Flappers a liar?"
"Well," answered Uncle Ezra slowly as he thoughtfully studied the ceiling, "I wouldn't go so far as to call the old man a liar, but I do know it to be a fact that when feedin' time comes to get any response he has to have somebody else call his legs for him."

CHOOSING A VOCATION.

Follow Common Sense and Conscience and Do Your Best.

It is very certain that no man is fit for everything, but it is almost as certain, too, that there is scarce any one man who is not fit for something, which something nature plainly points out to him by giving him a tendency and propensity to it.

I look upon common sense to be to the mind what conscience is to the heart—the faithful and constant monitor of what is right or wrong. And am convinced that no man commits either a crime or a folly but against the manifest and sensible representations of his own or the other.

Every man finds in himself, either from nature or education—for they are hard to distinguish—a peculiar talent and direction to some particular character, and his struggling against it is the fruitless and endless labor of Sisyphus. Let him follow and cultivate that vocation; he will succeed in it and be considerable in one way at least, whereas if he departs from it he will at best be inconceivable, probably ridiculous.—Lord Chesterfield.

The Valuable.
The man with a wife and seven children hauled up in front of the hotel desk, registered, got his bellboy and was starting off when the clerk thinking maybe he might jolly the new arrival, called to him.
"I beg your pardon," he said, "but hadn't you better leave your valuables in the safe?"
"Do you think I ought to?" inquired the man innocently enough, to hear him say it.
"Well, it is the best plan."
"All right," said the man, and turning to his wife, "Here, Mary, pass the children over to the guest behind the counter. He'll look after them and give us a rest."
Whereupon the clerk apologized.—Judge.

An Appeal For Homeless Children.

Now that the warm summer days are almost upon us, it is absolutely necessary to find country homes for the babies who are in the needful home of the Kentucky Children's Home Society.

Every parent knows how essential it is that babies should be kept cool and comfortable in the summer, and how important it is that they get good, pure milk. Their very lives depend upon it.

We have nine babies from two months old to a year and a half, and we earnestly hope to place each one in a good country home within the next few weeks. They are bright, sweet babies and will bring sunshine wherever they go.

There are thirteen boys and girls from eighteen months up to five years, attractive, happy little people who would be easy to train. They are just at the age when children are most responsive to kindness and affection.

We also have two sisters, aged ten and four, respectively, and a little brother, aged seven, whom we would like to place in the same home. If possible, they are as good children as we have ever had in the home and are so strongly attached to each other that we would dislike to part them. However, if we cannot find a home for all three together, we would like to find some one willing to take the sisters.

We also have larger children. We only place our children in homes where the moral and social atmosphere is of the best, and good references are always required. Any one desiring to do a good work, address Mrs. C. H. Grandview, Ltd., 1000 N. 1st St., Louisville, Ky.

over a hundred millions will thereafter lead a honest life. If he has only fifty millions his life should be a honest one, and if he has only ten millions then it ought to be a honest one. He can't lose a few railroads or so until he gets on his feet.

Up to, say, ten thousand a year no man can afford to be dishonest. He ought to get up in the cars and give his seat to women under thirty-five at least, and of course he will not take the chance of robbing any safe. From ten thousand up to a hundred thousand he can engage in little dishonest filers by making one of a pool or putting through a land deal or so for variety.

When he gets fifty millions or more together, however, every man ought to ask himself plainly the question whether from now on he ought not to be a philanthropist. Doesn't he owe this to his fellow men—Life.

DARK DOINGS.

The Reason One Woman Is Disguised With the Voting Preparation.

When any one asked little Mrs. Traut her opinion on the question of equal suffrage she had her answer ready. "I don't want to hear anything about it," she would say pleasantly, but firmly, "and I'd just as soon tell you why. It's because there's got to be a concealment and mystery about voting, and I like things open and aboveboard. It's the way I was brought up and the way I shall always feel if I live to be a hundred."

"I've had one experience, and that's all I want. A friend of mine talked and talked to me about voting on the educational question till at last I said I would, because I was brought up to think a great deal of education, and I always shall. So I gave up an engagement to go to the polls and register (and the dress was almost spoiled on account of my missing that trying on, because she didn't want to see whether it fitted) I ran but I didn't get near the right one, and then I took Eyes Tested FREE.

THE FARMERS MEETING MAY 29.

The Chairman of the Breckenridge County Tobacco Growers Association has decided to hold a county meeting at the Court House in Hardinsburg, on Saturday, May 29, for the purpose of electing two members to represent this county on the Board of Control which is business manager for the entire Green River District. Breckenridge county certainly has done the correct thing by joining hands with the other four counties of the district, and we are already assured that if the Association succeeds in getting a good per cent of the tobacco pooled, that the 1908 prices will again prevail. As the tobacco growers of Breckenridge county are now a part of the Green River Tobacco Growers Association they should take special interest in the selection of representatives and the meeting of May 29 should be a full one. There is one or two other matters of interest to be discussed besides these two representatives. The Burley growers are by no means left out of this Association and the meeting to be held on the 29th will be of special interest to those and they should be present. Now let every tobacco grower in the county, large and small, take a day off, attend this meeting, join hands with his neighbors and fellow countrymen for fair and equitable prices.

A SURE REMEDY FOR HORSE COLIC.

Colic in horses is a very common disorder. More valuable horses die every year from colic than from any other complaint, simply because they have not been treated properly. Sloan's Sure Colic Cure is a safe and sure remedy for colic or tympanitis. It acts instantly on the stomach and bowels and gives immediate relief.

Mr. J. Albert Pahlman, Pocomoke City, Md., writes: "Last November your Fever Remedy saved my Percheron Stallion Jumbo. He took sick on the cars the first day out and on May 31st Sloan's Sure Colic Cure saved a fine mare, but it took five hours to do it. It was a very bad case. I have used it on a great many horses for others and it always brings the results."

Dr. J. E. Neal, of Plymouth, N. C., writes: "A gentleman brought me his horse last Thursday night. He had the colic proper. I gave him Sloan's Sure Colic Cure and in three hours he was all right."

Send for Dr. Sloan's free book on horses, cattle, hogs and poultry. Address Dr. Earl S. Sloan 615 Albany St., Boston, Mass., Station A.

(The following copy is sent by Dr. H. C. Cook, of Washington, D. C., in response to Dr. Sprague's request. He says that it was written about 400 years ago, and was found pinned to a skeleton in the Royal College of London, shortly after the visit of a young lady and her mother to the museum. He further says that "copies are very scarce," and that "those who have them will not part with them." But this appearance of it in The World will make printed copies of it plentiful.—Ed.)

Behold this ruin! 'Twas a skull
Once of ethereal spirit full
This narrow cell was life's retreat,
This space was thought's mysterious seat.
What beautiful vision filled this spot,
What dreams of pleasure long forgot,
Nor love, nor hope, nor joy nor fear
Has left one trace of record here!

Beneath this mouldering canopy
Once shewn the bright and busy eye—
But start not at the dismal void,
If social love that eye employed,
But thru the dew of kindness beamed—
That eye shall be forever bright
When sun and stars are sunk in night.

Within this hollow cavern hung
The ready, swift, and tuneful tongue;
If falsehood's honey was disclaimed,
And where it could not praise, was chained
If bold in virtue's cause it spoke,
Yet gentle concord never broke,
That silent tongue shall plead for thee
When time unveils eternity.

Say, did these fingers delve the mine,
Or with the envied ruby shine?
To hew the rock or wear the gem
Can little row avail to them;
But if the page of truth they sought,
Or comfort to the mourner brought,
These hands a richer meed shall claim
Than all that wait on wealth or fame.

Avails it whether bare or shod
These feet the path of duty trod?
If from the bowers of ease they fled,
To seek affliction's humble shed,
If grandeur's guilty bribe they spurned,
And home to virtue's cot returned—
These feet with angel's wings shall vie,
And tread the palace of the sky.

The Praise That Comes From Thankful Cloverport People.

One kidney remedy never fails. Cloverport people rely upon it. That remedy is Doan's Kidney Pills. Cloverport testimony proves it always reliable.

J. C. Weatherholt, High St., Cloverport, Ky., says: "Two years ago I did not think it possible that I could ever be well again, in fact, I had settled up my affairs. I cannot describe the misery I endured from pains through my back and when ever I stooped, they became so sharp that it really felt as if someone were thrusting a knife into my kidneys. I was often very dizzy, dark spots floated before my eyes and I had to grasp something to keep from falling. My joints became swollen to twice their natural size and I lost weight rapidly until I was a skeleton. The doctors' medicines or the many guaranteed cures that I tried, did not help me and finally it was my good fortune to hear about Doan's Kidney Pills. I immediately procured a box at Flasher's drug store and I was greatly surprised at the results received. Before I had taken the contents of the second box there was a marked improvement and I continued using them until completely cured. I am now as well as any man in this county and can give Doan's Kidney Pills the credit."

cago was here last week and bought three fine horses, two from Vic Robertson, one at $300 and one at $350, and a fine young mare from Beard Bros. at $300. Mr. Robertson recently sold J. W. Adams, of Quincy, Ill., a fine combined gelding sired by St. Justice, for $350. Mr. Adams was so well pleased with his purchase that he had Mr. Long come over to see Mr. Robertson, who found what he wanted and made the above purchases. Breckenridge is getting quite a rep in the stock line.

Mrs. John R. Elder, sewing for paupers, 2 45
E. F. Alexander, furnishing assistance to paupers, 10 05
A. M. Hardin, supplies furnished to Minnie Speaks, 4 85
Ordered that court adjourn until tomorrow morning at nine o'clock.

At a Fiscal Court continued and held in and for Breckinridge county at the Courthouse in Hardinsburg, Kentucky, on Friday April 9, 1909.

Present, Hon. H. DeH. Moorman, presiding Judge of the Breckinridge County Court, and the following named justices of the peace, to-wit: John O'Reilly, T. M. Bates, H. G. Vessels and J. T. McCarish, being all the justices of the peace in commission, save two.

It is ordered by the court that the abutments of the North Fork bridge across Rough creek be raised to a height sufficient to put the bridge above high water mark. And the approaches to said bridge shall be rebuilt or repaired in such manner as the Bridge Commissioner's discretion may dictate.

It is ordered by the court that the Bridge Commissioner of Breckinridge county examine carefully and ascertain the condition of Dent's bridge with regard to safety at an early date, employing in this instance and all others in which he shall deem it necessary, the services of a competent bridge expert.

If the said bridge can be repaired with safety he will have the same repaired in such manner as his discretion dictates. But if it be determined that said bridge cannot be safely repaired, he is hereby authorized and directed by competitive bids after advertising, to purchase and have erected at said place such a bridge as he deems proper, making a written contract covering specifications for such bridge.

It is ordered by the court that the Bridge Commissioner forthwith let by competitive bid, after advertisement, a contract for the rebuilding of the wing wall, now down, at the Tar Fork bridge. He will make written contract in this and other cases advising with the county attorney as to legal questions covering the specifications and all other proper matters, and he will exercise special care in the matter owing to existing conditions.

It appearing to the court that an order was duly entered at the October term, 1908, appointing commissioners to ascertain the condition of the Cloverport bridge and make the necessary recommendations concerning same; and the said commissioners having made report on the 20th of February, 1909, at a special term of this court called for the purpose of considering the same. And the said court at the said special term having adopted the suggestion of the city of Cloverport, given the commissioners the option of using steel stringers in the repair of the said bridge when timber was already available to use wooden stringers, thus occasioning the delay responsible for the present condition of the bridge and the Bridge Commissioner of Breckinridge county, after such consideration, having directed the timber already contracted for forthwith delivered and the necessary repairs made; and it appearing that the work is not progressing to the satisfaction of this court, the Bridge Commissioner is directed to urge the immediate completion of the repairs to the bridge and he will put it in safe condition for public travel. This order is specifically understood that who should pay for the repairs to this bridge has, at no time nor in any degree, entered into a consideration of this matter and is not responsible for the delay. It desires the repair made but waives no legal rights to recover any part of the expense of such repairs for which the city may be responsible under the law.

It is ordered by the court that the Bridge Commissioner examine the bridge across Rough River at Falls of Rough, and take such action in regard thereto as he may deem best.

WE HAVE USED PE-RU-NA IN OUR FAMILY FOR A NUMBER OF YEARS.

Mrs. E. West,
137 Main St.,
Menasha, Wis.

Catarh of the Stomach.

Robust and Strong—Splendid Appetite.
Mrs. E. West, 137 Main St., Menasha, Wis., writes: "We have used Peruna in our family for a number of years and when I say that it is a fine medicine for catarrh and colds, I know what I am talking about. "I have taken it every Spring and Fall for four years, and I find that it keeps me robust, strong, with splendid appetite, and free from all illness. "A few years ago it cured me of catarrh of the stomach, which the doctors had pronounced incurable. "I am very much pleased with Peruna."

Bowels and Stomach.

Miss Mary Jones, 7018 Reynolds Ave., Chicago, Ill., writes: "I can recommend Peruna as a good medicine for chronic catarrh of the bowels and stomach. I have been troubled severely with it for over three years. I consulted two of the best specialists, but none seemed to make any improvement whatsoever. "One day I began to take Peruna, the wonderful tonic for women, and I found an improvement at once. I took six bottles in succession and I always have it on hand to take some now and then when my cough is bad. "Words cannot express my praise for your tonic. I weighed only ninety pounds before taking Peruna, now one hundred nineteen pounds. "Any one who has chronic catarrh should try Peruna. It will help any one."

Peruna is a Wonderful Tonic.

Catarh of Internal Organs.
Mrs. B. H. Jackson, R. F. D. 3, Newman, Ga., writes: "I have had catarrh of the internal organs for more than a year. I tried other medicines without success. "I was persuaded to give Peruna a trial, and the first bottle proved a godsend, and after taking ten bottles have received a permanent cure. "My mother, Mrs. John Honsworth, says: "I feel as though I ought to praise Peruna above every and any medicine in the world for what it has done for my tonic. I weighed only ninety pounds before taking Peruna, now one hundred nineteen pounds. "Any one who has chronic catarrh should try Peruna. It will help any one."

ingly, Frank Deane, and Huston Critchfield. And all interested taxpayers of the said district are urged to be present at said meeting and contribute their support to this effort as they are requested to do. This is, in the mind of this court, important.

It is ordered by the court that the following sums be and they are hereby allowed and appropriated to the persons below named, respectively, for the services mentioned:

W. F. Hook, delivering ballots to six precincts, Nov. election, 1908, $1 00
H. A. O'Leary, house for city local option election, 1908, 2 00
H. L. Stader, house for city local option election, 1908, 2 00
J. Dyer, house for city local option election, 1908, 2 00
E. F. Eger, house for county local option and November elections, 1908, 4 00
Mrs. J. J. Severs, house for county local option and Nov elections 1908 4 00
Dr. T. J. Hendrick, house for county local option and Nov elections, 1908, 4 00
T. J. Atkinson, house for county local option and Nov elections 1908, 4 00
City Hall, (G. W. Beard), house for county local option and Nov elections, 1908, 4 00
T. J. Hook, house for local option and November elections, 1908, 4 00
Gus Brown, house for local option and November elections, 1908, 4 00
H. A. O'Leary, house for local option and November elections, 1908, 4 00 daughter. She seems to be completely cured."

A Medicine for Women.
Mrs. E. T. (Liddle), Marton, N. O., writes: "Before I commenced to take Peruna I could not do any hard work without suffering great pain. "I took Peruna and Manlin, and can say with pleasure that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken. Now I am as well as ever. I will my own work and it never hurts me at all. "I think Peruna is a great medicine for womanhood."

A Household Remedy.
Mrs. J. B. Walker, 423 N. Chestnut, Kansas City, Mo., member United Presbyterian Church, writes: "I have been married eight years and have two children, and have never in my life found any one medicine as valuable as a household remedy as Peruna. "My husband took it seven years ago for a cold and catarrh of the bowels, which developed into a serious case of catarrh. I felt weak and sick, and could neither eat nor sleep well. "A member of our club who had been cured of catarrh through the use of Peruna, advised me to try it and I did so at once. In three days I felt much better and within a week I was well. I continued taking the entire bottle, and within two weeks I was in fine health."

Could Neither Eat Nor Sleep.
Mrs. N. P. Lawler, 423 N. Broadway, Pittsburgh, Pa., writes: "Peruna is a sovereign remedy for catarrh of the bowels and stomach. I have taken considerable of it, and one bottle of Manlin, and they both are most excellent remedies. "I am as well and hearty as I ever was in my life and give the credit entirely to your medicines."

Now Well and Healthy.
Mrs. Caroline Daft, Honts, 1, Bryan, Ohio, writes: "I can testify to the merits of Peruna. I have taken considerable of it, and one bottle of Manlin, and they both are most excellent remedies. "I am as well and hearty as I ever was in my life and give the credit entirely to your medicines."

Now Well and Healthy.
Mrs. Nellie Tanner, Athens, Ohio, writes: "I cannot find words to express my thanks for your kind advice. I never once thought I had catarrh of the stomach. "I commenced taking Peruna as you directed, and continued to take it until I was about two weeks after I began the medicine, and then it stopped. "I now have a good appetite, while before I was nearly starved."

STEPHENSPOET.
